

Families

Dear Family,

I've discovered a resource that I think you'll enjoy sharing with your entire family!

EiE Families is a free website created by the curriculum team at the Museum of Science, Boston. The website includes STEM activities and games to try at home and on the go—available in both English and Spanish.

I particularly recommend:

- Bye Bye Bug
- Turn It Up!
- I Spy Technologies

Everyone can solve problems and every problem has more than one solution. You and your child can work together to design your own solutions to challenges. You might just be surprised at the great ideas you come up with!

Visit <https://families.eie.org> to get started today.

I would love to hear how your family enjoys the activities.

Sincerely,
